Mexico City, The cultural, financial, governmental and entertainment capital of the country.

Mexico City has it all: history, culture, some of the world's best cuisine, museums, forward-thinking design, entertainment and a strategic geographical position that makes it an easy gateway to all colonial cities and beautiful beaches around the country.

Summer Course:

Language of Instruction: English

1) Crossroads: Business and Economic Opportunities in Mexico

Dates: June 29 to July 18, 2020

2) Optional Intensive Spanish Course (for credit)

Dates: June 15 to July 3, 2020

* The Intensive Spanish course takes place prior to the business course and it is optional. Both courses are for credit, each worth 6 ECTS and each 48-contact hours. Courses overlap for one week, but will be held at different times, representing no inconvenience for students who choose to take both.

Objective: The objective of the course is to develop an informed meaningful perspective of the Mexican economy and its evolving business environment, and to stress its relevance for pursuing economic policy or business opportunities in other emerging countries.

Structure: Class meets in 4-hour sessions from Monday to Thursday with academic visits and lectures on Fridays.

Credits: 48 contact hours, equivalent to 6 ECTS credits. Intensive Spanish is another 6 ECTS.

Week 1: Mexico's History, Art and Culture

Students will learn and understand from new perspectives Mexico's history throughout the multiple periods the country has experienced in its course to consolidate a modern state. Along with the political and international history, the student will learn the country's development by the means of its art and culture.

- › Historical development until 20th century
- › The construction of a modern state
- › Art in México
- › Cultural importance of México's gastronomy
- › Cultural visit to downtown Mexico

Weeks 2 and 3: Mexico's Business and Economic Landscape

Students will attain an overview of the economic and policy applications and learnings that have been implemented and exported to several other countries and contexts. Case study will be used to analyze a broad range of business challenges and opportunities.

- › Socio-economic context and poverty alleviation policies "the case of Progreso"
- › State-of-the-art program evaluation methods and specific applications
- › Drug trafficking and violence
- › The challenge of education and its link to the labor market
- › Health system and effective service delivery
- › Mexican macroeconomy and business landscape
- › Mexico- US migration
- › Green and not-so-green policies
- › Case study: "banking for the poor"

Intensive Spanish

Three weeks of intensive Spanish Language Level A2/B1

At the appropriate level, we will introduce the student to the fundamentals of Spanish grammar and syntax in academic and non-academic contexts alike.

Students will learn the grammatical structures of the simple and complex sentence in Spanish (on the syntactic, grammatical and lexical levels) and will be able to use them in real contexts through written and spoken activities.

- › Practice Spanish-language dialogues and conversations in real-life contexts
- › Identify basic Spanish verb patterns;
- › Familiarize yourself with Spanish parts of speech, parts of the sentence, and phrases;
- › Gain knowledge on some of the most representative aspects of Mexican culture.
